Editors' Preface

The publication of an unusual book justifies a statement of the reasons which promoted it. The discovery of its need affords the best apologia. Some years ago, a chance meeting with my collaborator elicited the mutual query: "Have you a copy of Fagan's Collectors' Marks?" We had reference to a little volume compiled and published at London in 1883, containing 671 "marks," and designated in Bourcard's Bibliography as "de toute rareté." We agreed that this excellent compendium deserved a place of honor in the literature of the Collector, and that the task of bringing it to more general notice was well worth the labor.

As we ourselves had included this volume among our chief "desiderata," we believed that it would be esteemed by collectors generally, and therefore we decided to reprint the original and subjoin an appendix of the more recent "marks." Plans were developed for the publication, correspondence was initiated with foreign museums, collectors and dealers, when, in an evil hour, the war supervened. Thereupon, the restrictions of censorship operated to place an embargo on all communications containing "marks" and ciphers, with the result that our appendix can be offered only in its fragmentary and incomplete state. But it is our purpose to supplement, amend and augment this list of latter-day "marks" as soon as the war-cloud shall be lifted, which has so darkened the horizon of European art and art centers. We would, however, gratefully acknowledge the aid and encouragement given us by Mr. Ferdinand Meder, who has placed at our disposal much important and valuable data, by which our task has been greatly lightened and our progress much facilitated.

This study of collectors' "marks" is as important alike to the historian of art as it is to the collector. A series of marks on a print is its diary; the fate and journey of many a masterpiece can be thereby traced until it finds at last its permanent home in the museum portfolio.

Thus, for example, a copy of Rembrandt's "Clerk with the Gold Chain," B. No. 257, first state, bears the collector's "mark" of Marriette, passes the Buckingham, Harding, Smith, Verstold and VanSoelen collections, with the imprint of each, and finally it reaches the Berlin Museum. Again, certain "marks" attest the highest recommendation of quality, for collections such as the Esdaile, Brentano, Berkenstock, etc., included only fine impressions. These marks are guarantees.

The serious collector esteems accurate information, even though it be merely incidental. He is interested not only in processes, schools, artists, classifications, and epochs, but also in the paper and water-marks, in inks and in the collector's "marks" themselves. A discriminating eye and a genuine love for the art must be supplemented by diligent study and careful research. Then, only, may the collector hope to achieve the true appreciation of the beauty and the values.

By making this excellent work readily accessible, and by bringing it as nearly up-to-date as possible, we believe we have materially assisted the collector both in his work and in his appreciation. In dedicating our effort to the American Collector, we hope that through this stimulation of interest in print collecting, we may advance an educational influence which is, in our opinion, of fundamental value.

M. I. D. E.

Since its publication in 1883, Louis Fagan's originally conceived little volume, "Collectors' Marks," has merited much recognition and served a useful purpose in the special field of art to which it is so happily adapted.

This book has long since been out of print. The increasing popularity of collecting prints and drawings has created for such a reference hand-book a greater demand than ever.

The altruistic purpose of the editors is to perpetuate Fagan's book, to bring its peculiar subject-matter up to date and to place the acquisition of this useful compendium within reach of every collector of prints and drawings.

Necessarily this production is still incomplete. We bespeak the co-operation of all collectors and hope by the issue of occasional supplements, to include many marks and signs, as their identification is made known to us.

DR. M. A. GOLDSTEIN,
St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of Sept. 17th, I am naturally much interested at the prospect of a new edition of my late husband's valuable little book, "Collector's Marks."

I have been approached more than once to undertake the work myself, but I always despaired of finding anyone with the experience necessary to the continuing of the book on the level of the original edition.

* * * * *

I should very much like to see the new edition and I trust in any case you will send a copy to the British Museum.

Thanking you for so courteously acquainting me with your intentions, I am

Faithfully yours,

C. F. FAGAN.

Preface.

EVERY authentic addition to that mass of information which we call history must, of necessity, not only be beneficial at the present time, but also shed its influence for good upon the future.

With the kind assistance of friends and colleagues, and after many years of research on my own part, both in this country and throughout Europe, I have succeeded, in putting together these 668 Marks, which, with a few exceptions, I have termed COLLECTORS' MARKS, inasmuch as, in the course of my researches, I have often come upon Marks which have turned out to be those of Engravers or Publishers, and, in order to perfect my work, have considered it necessary to include them. I have invariably given, when able to ascertain them, the Collector's name, dates of birth and death, place of residence, in addition to the date of sale and auctioneer's name; hence the familiar appellations, Christie and Sotheby, and likewise the names of extinct London firms, occur very frequently. With regard to Foreign Sales, I have omitted the auctioneer's name; but have always noted the city where the sale took place. This accounts for the recurrence of such names of cities as Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Leipsig, &c. In most instances also the sum total of the amount of the sale is given, an important piece of information. To this I have, here and there, added notes relating to the collections, and, where quotations were available, have not hesitated to introduce them. When a Collector's name is unknown to me, a blank appears, which can be easily filled up by persons who have the advantage of knowing it, and to whom I should feel indebted for supplying the deficiency, and gratefully acknowledge the same.

In concluding my labours, the kindness of the several gentlemen to whom I have had occasion to apply, during the progress of this work, demands my liveliest recognition. Abroad: Dr. Lippmann, Berlin; the Vte. Both de Tauzia, Paris; Mr. Meyer, Hamburg; Signor N. Ferri, Florence; Mons. Duplessis, Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris; Dr. Thausing, Vienna; M. Hymans, Brussels; Mr. de Vries, Amsterdam; Dr. Ruland, Weimar; and Signor Venturi, Modena. At home: Mr. Richard Fisher; Mons. Thibaudeau, and Mr. W. M. Scott.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

The various Initials, Signatures, and Marks, are thus arranged:

- I. The Initial Signatures under the forms of Ciphers and Monograms follow each other in alphabetical order; and, in arrangement, as closely as possible to the system adopted by G. K. Nagler, in his work entitled "Die Monogrammisten und München, 1858, etc."
- II. Stars, Crosses, etc., next follow.
- III. Coats of Arms, Crests, Intertwined Forms, and other Marks and Devices, conclude the arrangement.
- IV. The number attached to each Signature, Coat of Arms, etc., refers to the notice in the text.

Collector's Marks.

1. Alliance des Arts, 178, Rue Montmartre, Paris, Sous le titre "d'Alliance des Arts," il s'est formé une Société composée de bibliographes, d'artistes et de capitalistes, pour améliorer et faciliter les transactions commerciales et autres qui concernent principalement les Livres et les Tableaux. Sale, prints, Paris, January 25th, 1848.— (Bulletin de l'Alliance des Arts, &c., No. 1, June 25th, 1842.) Stamped in blue.
- 2.
3. Heneage Finch, 5th Earl of Aylesford. 1786—1859. Packington Hall, Warwickshire. In 1846 his Lordship's collection was privately sold to Messrs. Woodburn, who, in 1847, resold it to Messrs. Smith, of Lisle Street, together with the whole of their stock of prints. The latter firm offered the Rembrandt etchings, May 1847, to the Trustees of the British Museum for £3,000, and such as were wanted were acquired by the Museum, September 11th, 1848.

4. James Hughes Anderdon. 1793—1879. Sale, Evans', February 18th (3 days) 1828. Presented, 1867—69, to the Trustees of the British Museum, Catalogues of the Royal Academy from 1769—1849, illustrated with Prints and Drawings, also Edward's "Anecdotes of Painters," likewise illustrated. See No. 304.
5. Thomas Allen, F.A.S. 1743—1807. St. John's, Southwark. Sales, Library, Sotheby's, 1795; Portraits, &c., King and Lochée, May 13th (7 days), 1807, £656 18s. 6d.
7. A. Bourduge. Sales, February 3rd, 1798, and May 22nd, 1815.
8. A. Bridge, Publisher.
9. Alexander Buego, Printseller, Maiden Lane. Stock sold, Southgate's, February 26th (3 days) 1827. He used the same mark on a smaller scale.

10. D. G. de Arozarena. Sales, Paris, March 11th and May 27th (3 days), 1861, 110,000 francs.
- 11.
12. August Artaria, Fine Art Dealer and Publisher, 9, Kohlmarkt, Vienna. Mark used for his private Collection.
13. Count Giuseppe Archinto. 1783—1861. Milan. Sale, Paris, May 17th (3 days) 1862. About 56,000 francs. See No. 91.
14. Baron A. G. L. Boucher-Desnoyers. 1779—1857. Engraver.
15. Captain A. Donnadieu. An Officer of the French Army, and dealer, residing in London. Sales, Sotheby's, June 22nd, 1836, £87 5s. 6d. August 27th, 1851, £546 4s. and (MSS.) August 8th, 1864, £251 17s. 6d. See Nos. 128, 566.
- 16.

17. Alfonso III. d'Este, Duke of Modena and Reggio. Died 1644. The Collection was formed by Cardinal Alessandro d'Este (1569—1624). His nephew Alfonso III. affixed this mark.
18. Amédée Faure. Born 1833. Painter. 17, Rue du Bouloi, Paris.
19. A. Frankinet.

Sale, Paris, September 9th, 1844. Il avait sur tout d'admirables épreuves de Rembrandt, renfermées dans un petit portefeuille qui ne le quittait jamais. Il mettait le soir ce portefeuille sous son chevet; il couchait dessus, et il se levait la nuit pour remarquer quelque nouvelle perfection qui lui sautait aux yeux pendant un rêve. Il avait juré de ne s'en séparer qu'à sa mort. (Bulletin de l'Alliance des Arts. Sept. 25th, 1844, p. 97.)

74.

75. Chardon, Copper-plate Printer, Paris.

76. Charles-Philippe, Marquis de Chennevières. Born 1820. "Ancien-Directeur des Beaux-Arts," etc. A la suite de l'exposition de dessins organisée à l'Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Mai-Juin, 1879, par les soins de MM. Dreyfus et Ephrussi, ce dernier fut chargé par M. Lippmann, conservateur du Cabinet des estampes à Berlin, de sonder M. le marquis Philippe de Chennevières-Pointel, afin de l'amener à céder au prix de cent mille francs les trente et quelques dessins de sa collection qui figuraient à l'Ecole des Beaux-Arts. La réponse ne se fit pas attendre; ce fut un refus absolu, et M. de Chennevières ajouta, qu'ancien directeur des Beaux-Arts de France, il était bien résolu à ne jamais vendre sa collection à la Prusse. Quinze mois plus tard environ, la collection fut acquise par M. Wyatt Thibaudeau, de Londres, qui céda à M. Léon Bonnat dix ou douze des plus belles œuvres: le Michel-Ange à la sanguine, le Raphael provenant de Mariette, le Véronèse, etc., etc. De son côté, M. le baron Edmond de Rothschild acheta immédiatement la Tête de petite fille de Rubens, et M. Lippmann le Michel-Ange à la plume. Le reste de la collection continua à être dispersé entre les mains d'un grand nombre d'amateurs (Courrier de l'Art. April 27th, 1882.)

131. Robert Dighton. Caricaturist. He abstracted a number of Etchings and Prints, the property of the nation. The first meeting of the Trustees of the British Museum, for consideration of the matter was held on June 21st, 1806. The discovery of the theft was due to Mr. Samuel Woodburn, the well-known art dealer, who, having been summoned to attend the Board, stated that about May, 1806, he bought of R. Dighton, Rembrandt's "Coach-Landscape," for twelve guineas, and receiving information that there was reason to suppose it might be a copy, took the etching to the Museum, on June 18th, to compare it with the two which he had heard were in the Cracherode Collection. These he found to be missing, and only a coloured copy remaining. About the same time he had also bought of Davis, printseller, in the Hay-market, seven Dürers, in one lot, for two guineas. Four of these appeared to have marks and dates on back imperfectly erased. On leaving the Museum, Mr. Woodburn met M. de Claussin, who at once gave expression to his conviction of Dighton's dishonesty. Shortly afterwards the culprit made the following disclosures: that he first visited the British Museum in 1794, with an introduction from a Mr. Calley to Mr. William Beloe, an Under-Librarian, in whose absence, Mr. Ellis, Assistant-Librarian, produced for his inspection Rembrandt's etchings. A week afterwards Dighton repeated his visit and, finding Mr. Beloe very obliging, drew for him, gratuitously, his portrait and that of his daughter. The prints were then only slightly pasted in the portfolios (guard-books), many were quite loose and easily got off. It then occurred to Dighton that some of the etchings were wanting, for he knew that the Cracherode collection of Rembrandts was (very) complete, and yet he could not find among them some that were scarce, particularly the "Bull Landscape" and Regnier Anslo with the margin. He twice carried with him a portfolio, and was thus enabled to convey the prints away. At other times he used his pocket, or the breast of his coat, as a means for hiding his spoil. The prints thus stolen he sold—the Rembrandts excepted—certain examples to Mortimer for £70, others to Davis for £100, and the remainder to Woodburn for £10. The prints first abstracted were disposed of in 1795, the last about February, 1806. When Mr. Beloe entertained friends at dinner, Dighton's gratitude showed itself in his several times making presents of fish, and once in going to the extravagance of green peas at a guinea a quart. By means of these disclosures a large proportion of the most valuable prints were recovered. For his share in the transaction Mr. Beloe was dismissed. See No. 434.

- 133. William, 2nd Duke of Devonshire. 1665—1729. The nucleus of the Collection of Drawings, at Chatsworth, his Grace purchased from Nicolas Anthoni Flinck, of Rotterdam (see No. 180), for 12,000 florins. Claude's Liber Veritatis, which at his death in 1682, he left entailed to Agnès, a girl of eleven years of age (see L'Art, No. 386, May 21st, 1882, p. 142); it was acquired by the Duke, after considerable difficulty, the moment the entail came to an end, and the last owner was able to dispose of the volume. Louis XIV. tried in vain to buy it through Cardinal d'Estrées, his Ambassador at Rome. "Duplicates of the Library of his Grace, William Spencer, Duke of Devonshire," sold at Evans's, November 24th (6 days), 1815.

- 330. Amsterdam, Museum. On Duplicate Prints, &c., sold, Amsterdam, May 2nd, &c., 1882. 36,044 florins. La Collection du Prince Guillaume constitue le présent Cabinet, à Amsterdam. Il fut encore une fois principièrement enrichi, grâce aux bons soins du Roi Louis Napoléon—et ce, par l'achat en bloc de la superbe collection réunie par le Baron de Leyde de Warmond. On peut retracer les origines du Cabinet jusque dans la première moitié du dixseptième siècle. A cette époque le Stathouder Frédéric Henri, grand amateur des Beaux-Arts, réunit bon nombre d'estampes (11,234) des plus importantes. Le Cabinet fut transporté à Paris au mois de November, 1812; mais en Novembre, 1814, on le restitua à la Hollande. Deux ans plus tard, il passa de la Haye à Amsterdam, par suite d'un échange avec le Cabinet Numismatique (See No. 460). Le catalogue manuscrit de sa succession, déposé maintenant à la Bibliothèque Royale, parle, entre autres, d'Albums—"Konstboecken"—remplis d'estampes de Rembrandt et d'Albert Dürer. Cette collection restée dans la possession de ses successeurs, fut de beaucoup augmentée par le Stathouder Guillaume V, lequel Prince porta un intérêt tout spécial aux arts graphiques. Ainsi, informé du nouveau procédé, inventé par Ploos van Amstel, rendant à merveille les dessins des maîtres anciens, il fit venir l'inventeur à la Haye, et le pria de lui montrer son secret; puis il dessina lui-même une tête de femme, que Ploos reproduisit immédiatement en sa présence. (Curiosité du Musée d'Amsterdam, &c. p. 2.)

372. Musée du Louvre. L'année 1671 marque la naissance de cette collection. Accrue par le travail de deux siècles, elle catalogue aujourd'hui trente-sept mille numéros. Les ventes fameuses, les legs, les donations, firent atteindre ce nombre prodigieux. Le financier Evrard Jabach cédait à Louis XIV., 5,542 dessins. La plupart provenaient du vaste encan mis sur les dépouilles du roi d'Angleterre, Charles Ier. Desneux Delanoue, mourait vers la même époque, et Colbert poussait les enchères de 350 de ses compositions. Lebrun, léguait à S. M. toutes ses esquisses (12 février 1690). Mignard son successeur fit de même. En 1712, cent soixante-deux études du cabinet de Montarsy, entraient au Louvre. L'immense collection Crozat se dissipe (1741): le cardinal de Fleury n'y entend point malice et refuse tout argent. On demandait cent

mille livres des vingt mille dessins. Mariette, l'amateur des amateurs français du dix-huitième siècle, avait reçu de son père et de son aïeul, un beau cabinet; élevé à leur école, il devient maître dans la science des attributions et augmente les héritages. Il meurt en 1774, et sa vente est une des dates de l'histoire du goût. Le roi s'enrichit là de treize cents dessins payés 52,000 livres. 89 arrive. Des familles de collectionneurs émigrent: le gouvernement confisque leurs portefeuilles et les envoie au Louvre. Nos armées d'Italie et d'Allemagne ramènent de leurs missaires alliés de 1815 décimaient hélas! conquêts, des toiles, des dessins. Les come glorieux butin de nos victoires, et enlevaient le meilleur. Sous Napoléon Ier, les recueils de Filippo Baldinucci, furent négociés avec les Strozzi de Florence; et M. Girard, neveu de Bouchardon, offrait 838 études du statuaire. La Restauration et Louis-Philippe augmentèrent le département des dessins. La vente du roi des Pays-Bas (1850) et le legs de M. His de la Salle (1878) composent les deux accroissements remarquables de ces trente dernières années. Telles sont les assises de ce Musée. Avant le milieu du dix-huitième siècle, les dessins du roi restèrent entassés et soustraits aux regards. Leur première exposition remonte à 1751. Certains croquis s'échelonnèrent entre les Rubens du Luxembourg; et l'apothéose de Marie de Médicis enguirlanda ses cadres de Raphael et de Léonard. La Révolution innova. Le 28 thermidor de l'an V (1797), la salle d'Apollon étaisait "415 dessins des plus grands maîtres." Ils semblent n'avoir point déparé de leur voisinage, les peintures, les bas-reliefs, les bronzes décrits au livret, car chaque nouvel aménagement de 1802, 1811, 1815, 1817, 1820, les développe. Enfin, s'organisait sous Louis-Philippe, l'exhibition actuelle; et le Conseil d'Etat, sorti du Louvre, abandonnait le lieu de ses séances à l'enseignement du génie.—Espace restreint pour trente-sept mille œuvres. Des Conservateurs furent établis. C'a été avec des titres différents, Lebrun, Mignard, Houasse, Gabriel Blanchard, deux des Coypel, Antoine et Charles, Cochin le petit maître, le peintre Vincent, M. Morel d'Arleux, M. de Cailleux, M. Frédéric Reiset. Aujourd'hui c'est M. Both de Tausia. (Musée du Louvre. Gillot, &c. Paris, 1882. No. 1.) See Nos. 382,

569. These stars are generally found on fine drawings, and they have been assigned to Charles I. and Thomas Howard, 23rd Earl of Arundel. It has, however, been ascertained that this is erroneous. They can, with more justice, be attributed to the Lanières. In L. H. Ten Kate's translation of Richardson's "Description of Statues, &c., in Italy," the following passage occurs: "In the reign of Charles I. two brothers Lanière took to England their fine Collection of Drawings . . . which are known by the large star with eight points or by the small star with five points, stamped on the lower part. The first was the mark of the elder brother, and beside the star was written the name of the master, in the collector's hand, with figures which show the price at which he valued the Drawings. The second figure was always 1, 2, 3, or 4; of which 1, signified a shilling; 2, a half-crown; 3, a crown; and 4, a pound sterling; and the first figure denoted value, viz.; 2, 1, signified two shillings; 1, 2, half-crown; 3, 3, three crowns; 3, 4, three pounds sterling; and 10, 4, ten pounds sterling. Nicolas, that was his name, was also collector for the King." (L. H. Ten Kate's sale took place in 1732.) In all probability the drawings with the names of the supposed masters and prices, but without the stars, are from the collection of Nicolas Lanière, an Italian by birth, painter, engraver, and musician, who was appointed by Charles I. to be Inspector of Miniatures. He died in 1646. The drawings with the stars are from his brother's collection. Charles I., as is well-known, formed a large collection of works of art, but was not long permitted to enjoy his acquisitions. Moreover, one of the first Acts of Parliament, after the execution of the King, was the disposal of the pictures, statues, drawings, etc. In March, 1648, Parliament ordered Commissioners to be appointed to inventory the goods and personal estate of the King and Queen, and appraise them for the use of the public. This Inventory, which is in the British Museum (Dept. of MSS., Harl: 4898), is a large folio volume of 689 pages. The title is: "An Inventory of the Household Goods, Jewells, Plate, &c., Belonging to the Late King. Sold by Order of the Council of State, From ye Several places, and Palaces, following: The Tower Jewell House's, Somersett House, Whitehall, Greenwich, Wimbleton, Oatlands, Windsor, Hampton Court, Richmond, Sion House, St. James's, and several other places. With the several Contracts made by the Contractors for Sale of the said Goods, &c., From the year 1649, to the year 1652." The text of the Act was printed in black letter, small folio, with the imprint "Vicesimo sexto, Julii, 1649." The British Museum copy (^{506. d. 9.}₅₀) which appears to be a printer's proof, has the above date struck out and the manuscript alteration, "passed 4 July, 1649"; this latter date agrees with Whitelock's Historical Memorials, 1796, page 412, column 1. Every article was appraised and nothing sold under the fixed price. The names of the purchasers also appear. The sale extended over three years, viz.: 1650 to August 9th, 1653, and realized £118,080 10s. 2d. Among the chief purchasers we find Philip IV., of Spain, who, through the agency of his Ambassador, Don Alonzo de Cardenas, bought as many pictures, and other precious goods appertaining to the Crown, as, being sent in ships to the Corunna in Spain, were carried from thence to Madrid upon eighteen Mules. (Clarendon's History of the Rebellion, Oxford, 8vo. 1807. Vol. III., Part I., p. 400). Christina of Sweden purchased the medals and jewels, and some pictures of great price. The Archduke Leopold, then Governor of the Netherlands, was another principal purchaser. The Duke of Alva, the Cardinal Mazarin, and the Duc de Richelieu, purchased many, and likewise E. Jabach.

The Collection of Thomas Howard, 23rd Earl of Arundel and Surrey, K.G. (1592—1646) sold at various periods. The Pictures, at Amsterdam, on the 26th of September, 1684. Gems, Drawings, etc., at the house of Mr. Walton, Lincoln's Inn Fields, in 1685. Another sale of Pictures, Prints, Drawings, Medals, China, etc., which realized £8,852 11s.

570. Count Moriz von Fries. 1777—1827. Banker, Josephs-Platz, Vienna. Sales, Amsterdam, June 21st, &c., 1824; Vienna, 1826, and January 7th, &c., February 4th, &c., March 3rd, 1828. A subsequent sale, Paris, February 25th (13 days), 1867, 212,512 frs. The Collection consisted of 16,000 volumes, 300 Pictures, and 190,000 Prints and Drawings. Being under pecuniary obligations to a Mr. Mellish, he consigned his Collection in part payment. Sir Thomas Lawrence purchased about 150 Drawings. F. Rechberger was the Curator. See No. 185. 574.

575. Monsignor Giovanni Matteo Marchetti. Bishop of Arezzo. Died 1704. Said to have possessed the celebrated book of Drawings formed by Vasari, and 2,638 other Drawings selected by Padre Sebastiano Resta (1635—1714), a Milanese of the Oratory of San Filippo Neri, Rome. This Collection became afterwards the property of Cavalier Marchetti (the Bishop's nephew), who, in 1710, sold it to Lord Somers for £600, but the Drawings were dispersed before many years had elapsed. Filippo Baldinucci, in his Life of Domenico Passignani, tells us that the Vasari Collection was arranged in five volumes, and sold to dealers, at a valuation by Passignani, (who died in 1638.) per gran migliaja di scudi. See No. 492.
